

Just think ...

... about the crane power supply

Exactly. From SWF you can also order this important component for your crane kit, delivered together with the hoist, trolley power supply, end carriages and travelling machineries.

One order. One invoice. One delivery date.

A robust conductor bar system allows for a very reliable power supply for your customers crane.

The components, which are delivered in lengths up to 4 m, can be easily installed and the on site assembly work is made even easier due to the exceptional design of the connecting sections.

Our configuration software CraneMaster will calculate within a few minutes all the necessary components needed for the crane inclusive the crane power supply.

The time that you save there can then be used to read our newsletter.
